Introduction

The Federal Agency Task Force for Missing and Exploited Children was created in 1995, by then Attorney General Janet Reno to coordinate Federal resources and services to effectively address the needs of missing, abducted, and exploited children and their families. The mission of the Task Force is to (1) advocate for missing and exploited children and their families, (2) initiate positive change to enhance services and resources for missing and exploited children, their families, and the agencies and organizations that serve them, (3) promote communication and cooperation among agencies and organizations at the Federal level, and (4) serve as the focal point for coordination of services and resources.

The Task Force includes representatives from 16 Federal agencies and 2 non-Federal agencies that work directly with cases involving missing and exploited children and their families. The term “missing child,” as used in this Directory, refers to any youth whose whereabouts are unknown to his or her legal guardian. This includes children who have been abducted or kidnapped by a family or a nonfamily member, a child who is a throw away, or a child who is otherwise missing. The term “child exploitation” refers to any youth under the age of 18 who has been exploited or victimized for profit or personal advantage, which includes children who are victims of pornography, prostitution, sexual tourism, trafficking, and sexual abuse. These missing and exploited cases include both national and international cases.

First published in 1996, the Federal Resources on Missing and Exploited Children’s Directory has become an effective resource that can be used by agencies and organizations involved in the safe recovery of missing children. The Directory contains the most up-to-date information on and links to other agencies and organizations that can help in finding a solution. The Directory is a compilation of the many services, programs, publications, and training that address issues of child sexual exploitation, child pornography, child abduction, and missing children cases. It describes the role of each Federal Task Force member agency in the location and recovery of missing and exploited children, the types of services and support that are available, the various methods for accessing these services, and additional resources.

This new edition of the Directory has been redesigned to provide comprehensive, accessible agency and organization information in a concise, user-friendly format. It will be an indispensable tool for practitioners dealing with the many challenges of returning children safely.

CONFERENCES, WORKSHOPS, AND TRAININGS

Child Abuse Prevention and Investigative Techniques Course (CAPIT)

CAPIT is an 8-day course taught in residence or by mobile training team. The course provides advanced training to selected DOD and civilian criminal investigators in the investigation of child abuse. Legal, medical, and mental health professionals, as well as victim advocates, are encouraged to attend. CAPIT focuses on the conduct of interviews, gathering of physical evidence, sensitivity to the needs of victims and nonoffending parents, and special legal considerations as they pertain to the investigation of child abuse. Child interviews, child abuse crime scenes, and psychological aspects of victims and offenders are also discussed. The role of the investigator as part of a multidisciplinary family advocacy team is emphasized.

Domestic Violence Intervention Training (DVIT)

DVIT is a 5-day multidisciplinary course taught in residence or by mobile training team. The course provides advanced training to law enforcement domestic violence first responders. Legal, medical, and mental health professionals, as well as victim advocates, are encouraged to attend. DVIT focuses on effective intervention in and investigation of dysfunctional family incidents, with emphasis on protection of the victim and return of the family to a healthy state. Topics include multidisciplinary aspects of interventions, response techniques, dynamics of domestic violence, psychological characteristics of victims and abusers, domestic violence crime scenes, and strategies for assessing and calming domestic violence situations.

U.S. Department of Education

Office of Safe and Drug-Free Schools

The Office of Safe and Drug-Free Schools (OSDFS) provides funds and technical assistance to States, schools, and communities for programs that promote the health and well-being of students in elementary schools, secondary schools, and institutions of higher education. OSDFS programs emphasize positive, disciplined, high-achieving schools; strong parent and community involvement; effective school planning and preparedness; research-based prevention and education strategies; and the effective use of data by schools and States to select and improve high-quality programs and activities.

FYSB PROGRAMS

Division of Youth Services

Mentoring Children of Prisoners Program.

As many as two million young people in the United States have at least one parent behind bars. The Mentoring Children of Prisoners Program provides these often displaced and traumatized young people with opportunities to develop both a trusting relationship with a supportive, caring adult and a stable environment that can promote healthy values and strong families.

<http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/fysb/index.htm>

Runaway and Homeless Youth Program.

Each year, thousands of youth in this country run away from home, are asked to leave their homes, or become homeless. Through the Runaway and Homeless Youth Program, FYSB funds street outreach, short-term shelter, longer term transitional living, and maternity group-home programs that serve and protect young people.

Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA)

FVPSA is the primary Federal funding stream dedicated to the support of emergency shelter and related assistance for victims of domestic violence and their dependents. Funding to tribes, States, and the territories provides core support to more than 1,500 community-based domestic violence programs. Annually, these local programs respond to more than 1.4 million calls to crisis hotlines and provide emergency shelter and other services to more than 119,000 victims of domestic violence and 120,000 children.

Office on Child Abuse and Neglect

The Children's Bureau (CB) is one of two bureaus within the Administration on Children, Youth and Families, Administration for Children and Families. CB works with State and local agencies to develop programs that focus on preventing the abuse of children in troubled families, protecting children from abuse, and finding permanent placements for those who cannot safely return to their homes. One of eight teams at CB, the Office on Child Abuse and Neglect (OCAN) provides leadership and direction on the issues of child maltreatment and the prevention of abuse and neglect under the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act. OCAN is the focal point for interagency collaborative efforts. The agency supports improvement in the systems that handle child abuse and neglect cases, particularly child sexual abuse and exploitation and maltreatment-related fatalities, and improvement in the investigation and prosecution of these cases through the Children's Justice Act.

OCAN PROGRAMS

Children's Justice Act

The Children's Justice Act provides grants to States to improve the investigation, prosecution, and judicial handling of cases of child abuse and neglect, particularly child sexual abuse and exploitation, in a manner that limits additional trauma to the child victim. This includes the handling of child fatality cases in which child abuse or neglect is suspected and some cases of children with disabilities and serious health problems who also are victims of abuse and neglect.

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), the largest investigative arm of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, brings a unified and coordinated focus to the enforcement of Federal immigration and customs laws. Under the auspices of the Child Exploitation Program and Operation Predator, ICE aggressively targets transborder importers, distributors, and purveyors of child exploitation materials and U.S. and foreign child sex tourists to prevent the sexual exploitation and abuse of children both in the United States and around the world. The ICE Cyber Crimes Center, Child Exploitation Section works closely with international law enforcement agencies, the Department of Justice's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section, the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, the FBI, the Internet Crimes Against Children Regional Task Forces, and the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC).

ICE (under legacy U.S. Customs) was one of the first Federal law enforcement agencies to partner with NCMEC and become a point of contact for transborder tips and leads received. Today, ICE works actively on tips concerning transborder child exploitation and international child sex tourism that originate from NCMEC's toll-free hotline and Web site. ICE further develops leads from NCMEC for referral to appropriate domestic and foreign ICE field offices.

U.S. Secret Service

Forensic Services Division

Under Title XXXI of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, the U.S. Secret Service (USSS) is mandated to provide forensic and technical assistance to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC) and to State and local law enforcement authorities investigating crimes against children. In April 2003, under the Prosecuting Remedies and Tools Against the Exploitation of Children Today (PROTECT) Act, Section 322, the U.S. Secret Service statutory authority was amended. Title 18, United States Code 3056 was amended as follows: “(f) Under the direction of the Secretary of Homeland Security, officers and agents of the Secret Service are authorized, at the request of any State or local law enforcement agency, or at the request of NCMEC, to provide forensic and investigative assistance in support of any investigation involving missing and exploited children.”

Since 1997, the U.S. Secret Service has provided forensic services to NCMEC in the form of polygraph examinations, handwriting and fingerprint analysis, voiceprint comparisons, audio and video enhancements, computer and other electronic media examinations, forensic photography, graphic arts, research and identification, and the Operation Safe Kid Program.

U.S. Department of Justice Federal Bureau of Investigation Crimes Against Children Unit

The Crimes Against Children Unit (CACU) was established in 1977 to focus specifically on crimes against children. Staffed by supervisory special agents and support professionals, CACU addresses all crimes under the FBI's jurisdiction that involve the victimization of children, provides program management and fieldwide investigative oversight of critical FBI operations, and coordinates training throughout the law enforcement community. An FBI supervisory special agent is assigned full-time to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC) to coordinate the use of both FBI and NCMEC resources and facilitate the most effective response to child abductions, parental kidnappings, child pornography, and other cases involving the sexual exploitation of children.

Services offered in these fields:

FBI/CACU PROGRAMS

Child Abduction Rapid Deployment (CARD) Teams

Because the first few hours after a child is abducted are critical, CACU provides a quick and effective response to all incidents of crimes against children. CACU deploys CARD teams—consisting of four to six experienced Crimes Against Children investigators who have in-depth knowledge about child abduction cases—to provide on-the-ground investigative, technical, and resource assistance to State and local law enforcement. The nationwide CARD team consists of 48 members, with two full teams serving each region of the country. CARD teams work closely with FBI Behavioral Analysis Unit representatives, National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime Coordinators, and Crimes Against Children Coordinators.

Child Sex Tourism Initiative

The Child Sex Tourism Initiative addresses child sex offenders in the United States who travel abroad to procure children in other countries for sexual purposes.

<http://www.fbi.gov/hq/cid/cac/crimesmain.htm>

Innocence Lost National Initiative, Commercial Child Exploitation

In 2003, the FBI, in conjunction with the Department of Justice's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section and NCMEC, launched the Innocence Lost National Initiative to address the growing problem of domestic sex trafficking of children in the United States.

<http://www.fbi.gov/innolost/innolost.htm>

International Parental Kidnapping

The FBI helps locate children who have been abducted by a parent and taken to parts unknown, often overseas. FBI field offices across the country serve as the primary point of contact for left-behind parents seeking help. To request assistance or learn more about the FBI's services, please contact the Crimes Against Children Coordinator at the local FBI office.

FBI/IIU PROGRAMS

Child Victim Identification Program

The FBI staff maintains the FBI Child Victim Identification Program and liaisons with NCMEC to assist agents with the timely review and identification of new and past victims. The staff assists the field with the submission of images and videos obtained through search warrants, knock and talks, and FBI Computer Analysis and Response Team (CART) digital forensic examinations. These reviews are the cornerstone of prosecutions as NCMEC maintains a database of law enforcement contacts for identified victims.

Cyber Tips

All cyber tips that are reported to NCMEC are reviewed for any intelligence that could be used to locate and secure a child from an exploitive environment. Information gathered on potential targets who are involved in the manufacture, distribution, transmission, and financial support of any image or movie of child exploitation is compiled and provided to FBI field divisions for further investigation.

FBI Safe Online Surfing (SOS) National Initiative

The FBI–SOS National Initiative is a collaborative effort with Nova Southeastern University. The FBI–SOS Internet Challenge, which is available at www.fbi-sos.org, is an interactive, online quiz designed to teach middle school students Internet safety. Each month a middle school is recognized as the “national winner” and awarded a trophy.

Innocent Images Intelligence

The Innocent Images Intelligence Unit provides a coordinated response to online crimes against children by collating and analyzing information obtained from all available sources. An embedded intelligence analyst assigned to work full-time at NCMC reviews thousands of cyber tips every week to glean whatever intelligence is present and then disseminates that intelligence through proper channels. New applications are applied to existing criminal activities and, through a more coordinated approach, emerging threats are identified and proactively addressed.

U.S. Department of Justice

INTERPOL-Washington, U.S. National Central Bureau

INTERPOL is the international criminal police organization that is composed of designated national central bureaus (NCBs) in each of the 188 member nations. Each INTERPOL member country establishes, funds, and staffs a national central bureau, which serves as the point of contact for the international law enforcement community. Every NCB operates within the parameters of its own nation's laws and policies and within the framework of the INTERPOL constitution. In the United States, authority for the INTERPOL function rests with the Attorney General. Authority for administering the USNCB is shared by the Departments of Homeland Security and Justice.

USNCB's coordination services provide Federal, State, and local law enforcement authorities with the most effective means available to secure the assistance of foreign police in matters ranging from a criminal record check to the arrest and extradition of wanted persons.

Services offered in these fields:

- Receives foreign requests for criminal investigative assistance and directs those to the appropriate U.S. Federal, State, or local law enforcement or judicial authorities
- Receives domestic law enforcement requests and directs them to the appropriate NCB abroad
- Publishes INTERPOL international notices
- Enters information on a child-related crime, subject, victim, abducting parent, or missing child into the INTERPOL network
- Maintains list of INTERPOL State liaisons

Assistance provided in these areas:

- Parental abduction and kidnapping
- International abduction and kidnapping
- Runaway children
- Human trafficking
- Child sexual exploitation
- Child prostitution
- Sex tourism
- Internet crimes
- Tracking convicted sex offenders
- Apprehending non-compliant sex offenders

INTERPOL–USNCB PROGRAMS

Domestic Child Abduction Cases

In domestic child abduction cases, the initial request seeks to confirm if border-entry records can establish the presence of the abductor or the child in a foreign country. Once entry has been established, discreet verification is requested to confirm the exact location of the abductor in the hope of preventing that person from fleeing to another location.

If an NCB confirms the location of an offender, abductor, or child, USNCB notifies the originating police agency, which then coordinates subsequent investigative or retrieval efforts with the prosecuting attorney or the victim parent via the Department of State, Office of Children's Issues. If USNCB messages fail to locate an offender, abductor, or child, USNCB helps the originating agency complete the application process that will lead to publication of INTERPOL international notices.

Foreign Requests for Assistance

Foreign requests for investigative assistance are handled similarly to domestic cases. USNCB agents or analysts query various law enforcement databases—including the National Crime Information Center (NCIC)—to determine whether prior investigative information exists in the United States. The investigative request is then forwarded to the appropriate Federal or State police authority and oftentimes is coordinated with the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children. The results of such investigative actions are then routed back to USNCB for relay to the requesting country. If another NCB requests such action, USNCB can initiate a border-lookout notice using the Treasury Enforcement Communications System database and NCIC. Such a notice would request that INTERPOL be notified if the subject and/or missing/abducted child were to attempt to enter the United States.

U.S. Department of Justice Office of Justice Programs Office for Victims of Crime

The mission of the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) is to enhance the Nation's capacity to assist crime victims and to provide leadership in changing attitudes, policies, and practices in ways that will promote justice and healing for all victims.

OVC is charged by Congress with administering the Crime Victims Fund, a major source of funding for victim services throughout the Nation. Established by the Victims of Crime Act in 1984, the Fund supports thousands of programs annually that represent millions of dollars invested in victim compensation and assistance in every U.S. state and territory, as well as training and demonstration projects designed to enhance the skills of those who provide services to victims.

Each year, OVC funds programs that provide services, assistance, and resources to victims of crime, including child victims, in areas ranging from child sexual assault to international parental child abduction.

Services offered in these fields:

- Technical assistance
- Funding and grants

Assistance provided in these areas:

- International parental abduction and kidnapping
- Child sexual abuse
- Reference and referral resource information

OVC PROGRAMS

Children's Justice Act Partnerships for Indian Communities Grant Program

Supported by the Crime Victims Fund, this grant program provides funding to assist American Indian/Alaska native communities in developing, establishing, and operating programs to improve the investigation and prosecution of child abuse, including child sexual abuse. Specialized services aim to minimize trauma by tailoring standard procedures to more sensitively respond to child victims.

Victim Reunification Travel Program

This program provides funding to help left-behind parents in international child abduction cases. Support under this program is provided via an intra-agency authorization with the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) and an OJJDP grant to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children.

OVC Web site

OVC's main Web site provides publications, resource links, answers to frequently asked questions, and funding information in the areas of child victimization, or the more specialized subjects of "Missing and Exploited Children" or "Parental Kidnapping" in the Crime Victimization section of the site.

www.ovc.gov

RESOURCES

OVC is dedicated to continuously improving the national response to crime victims by enhancing the skills and abilities of victim service providers, and informing and educating a variety of audiences on numerous subjects of specific interest, including information on assisting child victims who have been exposed to physical or emotional abuse in the home, school, or community or who have witnessed crime or family violence.

Child Protection Division

In 2000, the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) created the Child Protection Division (CPD) to oversee its efforts to protect children from violence, abuse, neglect, and other forms of victimization. CPD administers all programs related to crimes against children, including Internet crimes and commercial sexual exploitation of children; provides leadership and funding in the areas of prevention, intervention, treatment, and enforcement; and promotes the effective use of policies and procedures to address the problems of missing, neglected, abused, and exploited children. CPD conducts research, demonstration, and service programs; provides training and technical assistance; provides assistance and support to the Association of Missing and Exploited Children's Organizations, the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children, and Team H.O.P.E. (Help Offering Parents Empowerment); and works closely with the National AMBER (America's Missing; Broadcast Emergency Response) Alert coordinator to support the development and improvement of the AMBER Alert system nationwide.

Since 1984, training and technical assistance have been provided to local law enforcement agencies to aid in their efforts to locate and recover missing children. Each year CPD trains more than 4,500 law enforcement officials in the investigation of missing children cases, at no cost to State or local governments.

Children's Passport Issuance Alert Program

The Children's Passport Issuance Alert Program is an important tool for preventing international parental child abduction. The program allows parents to register their U.S. citizen children in the Department's Passport Lookout System. The Passport Lookout System gives all domestic passport agencies and U.S. embassies and consulates abroad an alert on a child's name if a parent or guardian registers an objection to passport issuance for his or her child. If a passport application is submitted for a child who is registered in the program, the Department alerts the parent(s). This provides parents advance warning of possible plans for international travel with the child.

U.S. Postal Service

U.S. Postal Inspection Service

The U.S. Postal Inspection Service (USPIS) is the Federal law enforcement arm of the U.S. Postal Service with responsibility for investigating crimes involving all child pornography and child sexual exploitation offenses. The USPIS was the first Federal law enforcement agency to aggressively identify, target, and arrest those who produce and traffic in child pornography. Postal inspectors focus their investigations on commercial mail distributors of child pornography and their customers. In addition, postal inspectors target individuals who use the mail to distribute, receive, trade, buy, or advertise child pornography.

USPIS PROGRAMS

Prohibited Mailings, Child Exploitation Program

Postal inspectors have established a nationwide network of intelligence, incorporating a wide variety of mail-based undercover programs designed to identify suspects and develop prosecutable cases. In addition, the USPIS works with the Department of Justice's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (DOJ/CEOS) and all U.S. attorney's offices across the United States to investigate child sexual exploitation involving the U.S. mail.

Deliver Me Home

The USPIS partners with the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC) and the Postal Service to disseminate posters of missing children via mail carriers to every household in designated zip codes.

RESOURCES

The USPIS has both full-time and part-time child exploitation specialists located across the United States. In addition, the USPIS has one full-time postal inspector assigned to DOJ/CEOS in Washington, DC, and one full-time postal inspector assigned to NCMEC in Alexandria, VA. To reach the most recently assigned postal inspector for a specific location, contact the National Child Pornography Program Manager.

NCMEC PROGRAMS

Call Center

The NCMEC Call Center receives toll-free calls from the United States, Canada, Mexico, and many other countries on its telephone hotline (1-800-THE-LOST, 1-800-843-5678). Specially trained staff members record lead and sighting information, help both family members and professionals in their search for missing children, assist sexually exploited children and their families, work with hearing impaired callers through the NCMEC TDD line, process requests from families with travel reunification needs, offer direct after-hours assistance to law enforcement, and provide safety information to help prevent the abduction and sexual exploitation of children. NCMEC is able to facilitate communication with callers in 180 different languages.

Case Analysis Division

The Case Analysis Division provides analytical support to missing and abducted children investigations. Staff members assess all leads and sightings, evaluate each lead for its potential usefulness, add value to leads by providing the most current and relevant information available, and disseminate that information to the appropriate law enforcement agencies. NCMEC facilitates provision for up-to-date national sex offender information to provide rapid data about the geographical proximity of these subjects to both new and unresolved cases of significance and relevance.

Sex Offender Tracking. NCMEC serves as an information clearinghouse for law enforcement agencies in their efforts to locate noncompliant, absconded, registered sex offenders by providing technical assistance and access to NCMEC databases, external sources, and geographic databases.

www.missingkids.com

CyberTipline

NCMEC operates this congressionally mandated reporting Web site for child sexual exploitation, including child pornography and online enticement.

<http://www.cybertipline.com>

Exploited Children Division

The Exploited Children Division serves as a resource for families, law enforcement agencies, and members of the public on the sexual exploitation of children. Analysts process information reported to the CyberTipline; disseminate leads; and provide technical assistance to local, State, Federal, and international law enforcement agencies investigating cases involving the sexual exploitation of children.

Child Victim Identification Program.

NCMEC serves as the clearinghouse in the United States for cases involving child pornography and as the main point of contact for international agencies seeking to identify victims.

www.cybertipline.com

Family Advocacy Division

The Family Advocacy Division provides technical assistance, referrals, and crisis intervention services for families, law enforcement officials, and family advocacy agencies.

Child Safety: Education and Prevention

Materials. NCMEC's publications and other educational materials can be ordered by calling NCMEC or downloaded online.

Family Reunification Assistance.

NCMEC arranges free transportation for families who meet eligibility requirements to reunite with their children. This service is made possible through the U.S. Department of Justice's Office for Victims of Crime and NCMEC's private sector transportation partners, including American Airlines, Amtrak, Continental Airlines, and Greyhound Lines.

Missing Children Division

The Missing Children Division works with law enforcement agencies and with the families of missing and abducted children to provide technical assistance and all available search resources. Staff members maintain up-to-date case information, establish regular contact with both families and investigative agencies, certify and prepare posters for dissemination, and post updates of each child's information on NCMEC's Web site.

AMBER Alert. NCMEC assists the Assistant Attorney General within the U.S. Department of Justice's Office of Justice Programs with AMBER Alert activations and disseminates AMBER Alert messages to secondary communications distributors.

Family Abduction. NCMEC helps families, law enforcement agencies, attorneys, and others find and recover children who are the victims of family abduction.

www.missingkids.com

Forensic Assistance. NCMEC provides age-progressed photographs of missing children; creates reconstructed facial images of unidentified deceased children; and helps families, law enforcement agencies, and medical examiners resolve long-term missing children cases.

Infant Abduction Prevention Program. NCMEC provides infant abduction prevention training to nursing associations, hospital security associations, and law enforcement agencies as well as investigative assistance to law enforcement in infant abduction cases.

Photo and Poster Distribution. Through a network of nearly 400 active private sector partners, NCMEC has distributed more than half a million photographs of missing children. NCMEC coordinates national media exposure of missing children cases through its partnership with major television networks, leading nationwide publishers, and major corporations. NCMEC also has “broadcast” fax capabilities that provide rapid dissemination of vital information concerning missing and abducted children to key locations throughout the country.

Project ALERT. Project ALERT (America’s Law Enforcement Retiree Team) is comprised of skilled, retired law enforcement officers who specialize in long-term missing child cases. Team members provide free onsite assistance to law enforcement.

Team Adam. Team Adam sends experienced investigative specialists to the sites of serious and emerging child abductions, missing child incidents, and cases involving child sexual exploitation to advise local investigators.
