

A Statement from the Home Office

Child sexual exploitation and abuse is a truly sickening crime. It is essential that companies like Facebook do not choose to turn a blind eye to the problem. We welcome and support Microsoft, Google, LinkedIn, Yubo and Roblox in their continued efforts to protect children online by screening for exploitative content. We encourage other companies to follow their lead in preventing appalling online content from being shared and in unmasking sexual predators online.