YOUR IMPACT
WHERE DOES THE MONEY GO?
By becoming a fundraiser, you’ll raise awareness and funds to support the many programs that NCMEC provides to children, families, law enforcement, social service agencies and others when they need help with a missing, exploited or recovered child. Your participation in these events will help NCMEC do what we do best: protect children against abduction, abuse and exploitation – because every child deserves a safe childhood.

Helps distribute safety materials to a child headed back to school

Helps provide clothes and toiletries for survivors of child sex trafficking

$10
Helps distribute posters of missing children to millions of people online

Helps pay for the initial therapy visit for families to heal, rebuild and reconnect

Our mission of riding to raise funds for missing child posters pales in comparison to NCMEC’s work of counseling and consoling other families who are in need – I’d ride my bike any day rather than be faced with their nightmares. And I thank God that you all are here.

CHECKLIST

Let’s get started! This checklist captures some of the key strategies to help you meet your fundraising goals. The following pages contain details, tips and tricks that will help you to check off each of the below activities. If at any point you have questions, reach out to us. We are here to help!

☐ Set your fundraising goal. Setting a goal helps to give your campaign focus, measures your progress and keeps you motivated. Goals lead to results.

☐ Create a fundraising page. Customize your fundraising page with a personal note as to why you are raising funds and what their donation means to you and to NCMEC’s mission.

☐ Donate to yourself. Start your campaign off with some momentum by donating to yourself. Plus, it shows donors you are truly committed to the cause.

☐ Email your family and friends. Reach out to your contacts two to three times. It can sometimes take a few reminders before the donations come in.

☐ Send letters to family and friends. Snail mail is often seen as more personal and meaningful than digital forms of communication. Write a letter to those you are close to, communicating your why and your ask.

☐ Expand your reach through social media. Social media is meant for sharing information. It is the perfect place to share your fundraising goals and milestones with a broader community.

☐ Host an event. Fundraising events can be as big or small as you want them to be. They are a great way to raise awareness and encourage donations to your campaign.
EMAIL OUTREACH AND SNAIL MAIL

Don’t wait to reach out to your network of friends and family. Both email and snail mail are excellent ways to reach your community far and wide with a personal message. Although most communication takes place online these days, many individuals still appreciate the personalized touch of a handwritten letter. Snail mail is also a great way to reach people who want to give but are not engaged through email and social media.

The first step is to create your contact list. Remember, the more people you contact, the more likely you are to get donations. After you have compiled your list, begin to craft your message. An effective message will contain the following components:

- An explanation of why you are participating in the event as a fundraiser. What does this event mean to you? What does this cause mean to you?
- A direct ask, for example “Please donate now to support my efforts.”
- A link to your fundraising page or instructions on how to donate
- A thank you note

SAMPLE EMAIL

Dear Friend,

I need your help. I have just decided to (run/ride) in the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children’s (NCMEC) (Miles for the Missing 5k/Miles for Hope) this year and I am asking you to support me.

There are over 400,000 reports of missing children made to the FBI every year. Missing children are vulnerable to sex trafficking, sexual abuse and even murder. I’m (running/riding) to help NCMEC bring these children home and out of harm’s way as quickly as possible.

I love and care about kids and I want to keep them safe, and I know you do too—so please help me support this very important mission by donating to my fundraiser: (insert link to personal fundraising page). Funds raised will go towards helping find missing kids, reducing the amount of online child sexual exploitation and preventing future victimization.

Since 1984, NCMEC has circulated billions of missing child posters and has helped law enforcement in the recovery of more than 327,000 missing children. If you want to learn more about their amazing work, visit their website at MissingKids.org.

Once again, please help me reach my fundraising goal of ($$) and make a donation of ($$) to the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children today: (insert link to personal fundraising page). I would be very grateful to you, and so would the families and children served by this wonderful organization.

Thank you for your support and I hope that you and your family are all safe and healthy!

Sincerely,

SOCIAL MEDIA

Social Media is a key component of successful fundraising! Through social media, you have a chance to bring people into your training experience (through endurance events like a 5k or bike ride) while also raising awareness about the cause. With an abundance of platforms to choose from including Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Linked In, Snapchat and YouTube, there is no shortage of channels to reach your audience. Social media is a great way to recognize your donors, ask for donations, share your story and provide training updates. The more people feel like they’re a part of your journey, the more they want to help!

BEST PRACTICES

- Include a photo/video when posting and use emojis! They are fun and make your post stand out!
- Do a Facebook/Instagram Live to talk about your fundraising campaign and what this event means to you.
- Leverage important dates to boost your posts such as your birthday, Missing Children’s Day (May 25) or International Children’s Day (June 1)
- Tell your story and let your passion shine through. Don’t forget to tag @missingkids and to use these hashtags so the NCMEC fundraising community can keep up with your hard work: #NeverStop #MilesforHOPE #MilesfortheMissing #RideforMissingChildren
- Post multiple times and be sure to respond when someone comments on your post or asks a question. This helps to increase interest and engagement.

FUNDRAISING EVENTS & ACTIVITIES

When it comes to fundraising, the sky is the limit! No matter how big or small your fundraiser is, every bit helps. You are making a difference and helping to keep kids safe. To get your creative juices flowing, we have included some examples of successful fundraising ideas below.

CREATIVE FUNDRAISING IDEAS

Trivia Fundraiser
Host a trivia night at your home or in collaboration with a favorite restaurant or bar. Tickets benefit your cause.

Bake Sale
Collaborate with your office, church or community center to host a bake sale. Many grocery store chains will allow for nonprofit organizations to set up bake sales at the entrance of their stores.

Clothing Swap
Organize a clothing swap party where your attendees bring an agreed upon amount of clothing and accessories to trade. Create a cover charge to be donated to your cause.

Car Wash
Recruit some friends to hold a car wash. Many gas stations will allow you to host your car wash on their property at no cost.

Yard Sale
Clean out your closet while raising funds for a great cause.

Birthday Fundraiser on Facebook
Don’t forget about social media! Leverage your birthday to set up a fundraiser on Facebook. In one year alone, Facebook birthday fundraisers brought in over $300 million in donations!

“Jeans Day” at Work
If your employer allows solicitations at work, ask if you can have a “jeans day” where employees who donate to your fundraising can wear jeans.

Restaurant Night
Find a restaurant willing to donate 20% of sales and invite your network for a night on the town.

Donation Class
Ask a yoga, fitness or dance instructor to host a class in exchange for donations to your cause.

VIRTUAL FUNDRAISING IDEAS

Silent Auction
Thanks to an abundance of free online platforms, it is simple to host a silent auction online. Increase donations by collecting donated gift cards and items from local businesses for guests to bid on virtually.

Virtual Gaming Tournament
Offer a selection of popular online games and charge a small entrance fee to join the virtual event. Organize a multi-stage tournament to determine the final winner for bragging rights or a small prize.

Live Streaming Fundraising
Many platforms including Facebook, Instagram and YouTube include a live streaming option. This is a great way to reach your audience with important details about your fundraiser. Highlight why you are fundraising for NCMEC, your goal amount, updates on achieving your goal and details about how to donate. After your live session has ended, be sure to share it to your feed for others to view.
SETTING UP FOR SUCCESS: TIPS AND TRICKS

1. Don’t be afraid to ask. If one thing will hold you back from meeting your fundraising goal, it is the fear of asking. When you share your fundraising campaign with others, you are sharing your passion, story and reasons for supporting a cause. In asking them to donate, you offer them the opportunity to join you in making a difference. Many people are surprised to find that their community wants to be involved but doesn’t know where to start. Your ask could be the opportunity they’re waiting for!

2. Make it personal. Include your personal voice in your fundraising page, emails and letters. Think about when you first learned about missing and exploited children – were you sad? Angry? Confused? Bring people into your learning experience and tell your story! Practice telling your story by asking yourself the following questions:

   c. What does Miles for the Missing mean to me?
   d. What are some statistics or facts I’ve learned about missing and exploited children that shocked me?
   e. Why do I believe it is important to raise awareness of and support missing and exploited children’s issues?
   f. What are my goals this year? Am I increasing my speed, running my first 5k or trying to beat my fundraising goal?

3. Framing is key. Frame your ask to potential donors as an opportunity to support you while also making a direct impact on the fight to keep children safe.

4. Make your ask specific. Ask for a dollar amount and don’t be afraid to ask high. Giving them a suggested amount takes out the guess work and makes it easy for them to donate based on their budget. An example might be “Donate $5, $25, $50 or anywhere in between!”

5. Let your supporters know what their donation supports. It is important to communicate how their donation will make a difference. Any amount helps in NCMEC’s mission to find missing children, reduce child exploitation and prevent victimization.

6. Follow up. People are busy and things slip through the cracks. Send reminders to potential donors and don’t be afraid to ask again.

7. Say thank you. Nothing is more important than taking the time to genuinely thank all those who supported your fundraising campaign. This is an ongoing activity. Be sure to thank your supporters when they donate, but also when the event has ended. Whether you write a heartfelt note, or make a personal visit, take it as an opportunity to express gratitude and update your supporter on the event.

“With so many challenges facing our nation right now, we cannot forget the missing children who still dearly need our help. Our fundraising efforts and community relationships are the most important parts in reaching the goal of locating a missing child and returning them to their family.”

"It has been a privilege to come alongside NCMEC and fundraise to support their mission. Their approach to correcting the injustices of child exploitation is nothing short of inspiring. I believe strongly in their work, as it not only empowers survivors and families, but illuminates the impact each individual is capable of contributing.
